Particular attention is called to the fact that no article is offered cheaper because of cheaper quality, for the absolute purity of goods is our fundamental principle. We can sell cheaper only because each customer is the same as a partner, and goods are marked to cover expenses only, the profits going to the customer instead of to any private individual or firm, as in general business.

Our business is not competitive. We appeal to the consumer to benefit himself, or herself, which is very easy to be done by co-operation.

Goods are delivered anywhere the same as by any other grocers.

PURE OLD LINE
HAND-MADE SOUR-MASH WHISKEY,

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE FINEST WHISKEY IN THE WORLD.

HENRY McKENNA, an Irish gentleman of the old school, born in the county of Derry, came to this country over forty years ago, and located in Kentucky. He soon purchased a farm among the hills of Nelson County, and built a mill and "still house," and commenced the manufacture of PURE BOURBON WHISKEY.

He uses the corn from his own farm and that raised by his neighbors, which far surpasses in quality the products of the rich bottom and prairie lands of the West. He distills only in the months of March, April, May, September, October and November, making only about three barrels per day.

He uses no patent yeast, lime, or other harmful compounds, to produce a large QUANTITY at the expense of QUALITY.

Therefore, the McKENNA Old Fashioned Hand-Made, Sour-Mash, Copper-Distilled is as PURE and HARMLESS as any Whiskey can be.

We, the undersigned, have been using H. McKENNA's Whiskey for medical purposes in our practice for years, and we find it pure, as represented by him, and we can recommend it to any person needing whiskey for medical use.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

BE IT KNOWN, That whereas Thomas A. Hutchins, Charles Soule, Henry S. Adams, Benjamin Cushing, Thomas Hills, C. B. Tillinghast, P. H. Powers, John L. Swift, C. P. Lovell, John F. Dustan, James W. Clarke and D. Eldredge, have associated themselves with the intention of forming a corporation under the name of the CIVIL SERVICE CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY, for the purpose of organizing and maintaining general co-operative supply warehouses, where members of the Association and others may purchase supplies and participate in the profits, with a capital of ten thousand dollars, and have complied with the provisions of the Statutes of this Commonwealth, in such cases made and provided, as appears from the certificate of the President, Treasurer and Directors of said corporation, duly approved by the Commissioner of Corporations, and recorded in this office:

NOW THEREFORE, I, Henry B. Pierce, Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Do HEREBY CERTIFY, That said T. A. Hutchins, C. Soule, H. S. Adams, B. Cushing, T. Hills, C. B. Tillinghast, P. H. Powers, J. L. Swift, C. P. Lovell, J. F. Dustan, J. W. Clarke and D. Eldredge, their associates and successors, are legally organized and established as and are hereby made an existing corporation, under the name of the "Civil Service Co-operative Society," with the powers, rights and privileges, and subject to the limitations, duties and restrictions, which by law appertain thereto.

WITNESS my official signature, hereunto subscribed, and the Seal of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts hereunto affixed, this sixteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

HENRY B. PIERCE,

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

CIVIL SERVICE CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY.

OBJECTS AND PLAN OF THE SOCIETY.

1. THIS SOCIETY has for its object the supply of the best articles of domestic consumption and general use to its members, at the lowest remunerative rates.

2. THE MEMBERS consist of two classes, viz.: SHAREHOLDERS and ANNUAL MEMBERS.

3. SHAREHOLDERS are those persons owning one or more shares of the stock of the corporation, and any person is eligible to hold shares whose application is approved by the Directors.

4. THE SHARES are of the par value of $4.00 each, and holders of one or more shares are entitled to a voice in the management, to participate in the profits, to deal at the store and with the tradesmen connected with the society, without any further payment whatever.

5. ANNUAL MEMBERS.—Any person may become an Annual Member upon the payment of an annual fee of $1.50. They will enjoy all the privileges possessed by shareholders, except participation in the profits and management of the Society.

6. TICKETS.—A membership ticket will be issued to each member, bearing his or her name and number, which must be exhibited, if requested, upon every purchase at the Society's or the contracting stores.

7. ANNUAL TICKETS date from the first of January in each year, but will be issued at any time upon personal or written application to the Secretary, at a discount of ten cents for each and every full month expired. All annual tickets must be renewed each year. For the issue of a duplicate ticket to replace one that may have been lost, a fee of ten cents will be charged.

The directors reserve to themselves the right of declining to renew any annual ticket, or to cancel any ticket on repayment of the subscription for the unexpired term thereof.

8. APPLICATIONS for tickets to be sent by post must be accompanied by the amount of subscription as above, and stamp for return postage. It is particularly requested that such remittances be made by postal money order, and not in postage stamps. Money sent by post will be at risk of the sender.

RULES AND CORRESPONDENCE.

Members are requested, in order to secure despatch and correctness in the execution of their orders, to observe the following rules :

9. All articles purchased at the store must be paid for at the time of ordering, unless charged to Deposit Order Account, explained in Section 13.

10. MEMBERS will be supplied with the Quarterly Price List, and also, upon application, on the first day of each month, with a monthly circular, containing any changes, additions, or reductions of the articles in stock or prices. Members will also be supplied with printed order blanks, which they are requested to use whenever possible.

11. THE NAME of the Member, the number of ticket, and, if goods are to be sent, the address, should be legibly written on each order, and where goods are to be sent beyond the city limits, the railway or other conveyance should be specified.

12. IN PURCHASING at the Society's store, members are requested, as far as possible, to prepare their orders on the printed order forms before calling, or prepare the same on blanks furnished at the store. In case of the impracticability of so doing, orders will be filled out by the counter-man, and must be sent by the customer or counter-man to the cashier and settled, and the receipted order returned to the counter-man, before any delivery of goods can be made. Such receipted orders may be left with the counter-man to be put up, and will be returned with the goods.

DEPOSIT ORDER ACCOUNTS.

13. To save the trouble and expense of sending money through the post, or the inconvenience of members coming personally to the store, or the delivery of goods to be paid for at residences, which may arrive at inopportune times, Deposit Order Accounts may be opened with the Society. Any member of the Society may deposit with the cashier, at any time, any sum not less than $10.00, which will be credited on Deposit Order Account. Such accounts will be debited with the amount of each purchase, the orders for which may be sent by mail, by messenger, or, if within reasonable distance from the store, will be taken at the residence. These accounts will be balanced monthly, or at any time on application, and the balance, if any, returned within one week. Deposit Order Accounts will not bear interest and cannot be overdrawn.

Especial attention is called to the great advantages of this system, not alone in the saving of trouble and risk in sending remittances by post or messenger, but in the indirect advantage to members which arises from the diminution of clerical labor. Members are strongly recommended to adopt a regular and systematic mode of giving orders, which in the case of articles of household consumption effects a great saving. A monthly or fortnightly order for supplies introduces a system in the management of households which has been found to work more than beneficially, as enabling the housekeeper to form an accurate estimate of expenditure and in simplifying of household accounts.

Members are requested to carefully read the following directions concerning Deposit Order Accounts, the observance of which will prevent delay in forwarding goods, obviate errors, and enable prompt attention to be given to orders, letters, queries, etc.

DIRECTIONS.

14. ORDERS should always be made on the Society's printed order forms, marked for Deposit Order Account.

15. ALL ORDERS to be charged to Deposit Order Account must be signed at the foot by the customer.

16. REMITTANCES by post to the credit of Deposit Order Account should be by check, draft or postal money order, payable to the Treasurer.

Personal payment to the credit of Deposit Order Accounts may be made to the cashier, at the store, and in both cases the usual signature of the customer must be left for record.

17. SPECIAL ORDER BLANKS for purchases to be charged to Deposit Order Account, may be obtained on opening an account.

COAL AND WOOD.

18. SPECIAL CONTRACTS have been made with reliable dealers in Coal and Wood, and orders for the same will be received at the store, and prompt delivery will be assured, at the prices stated in the Price List. Any fluctuations in price will be promptly posted at the store.

PRICE LIST AND MONTHLY CIRCULAR.

19. THE PRICE LIST AND CIRCULAR OF FIRMS will be published quarterly. As many alterations and additions will be made in each issue, members are particularly requested to provide themselves with the new number each quarter. The prices are subject to variation, according to market fluctuations.

Copies can be obtained at the store, or forwarded by post on application to the cashier, enclosing 2 cents in stamps.

20. ON THE FIRST DAY of each month a circular will be issued, showing the alterations, viz.: items reduced or increased, items struck out or added. In this circular will be inserted, in addition to the variation of prices, supplementary or special advertisements of tradesmen offering special advantages; advertisements of members wishing to buy or sell shares; to recommend or obtain servants; to let or rent houses, or any kindred matter desirable. In it also will be published any suggestions to members or from members, the balance sheets when issued, and any general information necessary or desirable to communicate.

GENERAL PURCHASES.

21. MEMBERS desirous of purchasing any article not sold in the Store or dealt in by the contracting firms are requested to apply to the Secretary, and such wants will be promptly attended to, and any and all commissions executed at a saving to the members.

CONTRACTING FIRMS.

22. SPECIAL CONTRACTS have been made with reliable firms, in the various lines of business specified in the list elsewhere, which will entitle members to special rates. It is believed that the list as made up comprises such only as are fully entitled to confidence, and members are especially recommended to give them preference in their trade.

The rates of discounts allowed will be found on reference to the list.

In dealing with these firms, members are advised not to declare their membership until prices have been fixed, from which the discount is to be allowed.

The firms comprised in this list have entered into contract with the Society to allow the discounts specified, and any deviation from this agreement should be reported at once to the Secretary.

SUGGESTIONS TO MEMBERS.

23. Always keep a printed order form in the house, and as a convenience in ordering, whenever any article sold at the store is needed or liable to be needed, write it at once on the printed order forms and an order will then always be in readiness in case of haste to catch trains or other conveyance.

24. Any order received by mail or messenger will be promptly filled and delivered C. O. D.; but in cases where collections are to be made on delivery, customers are requested not to neglect to leave funds for payment in the event of their absence. Should this provision be forgotten, members must not blame the management for any inconvenience occasioned by non-delivery of the goods, which will be enforced in all cases. This course will not indicate any lack of confidence in the member, but must be the invariable rule to make your business successful. There will be no accounts opened with members on trading account, except the Deposit Order Accounts. Every member will appreciate the value of this provision.

25. Members are urged as far as possible to adopt the Deposit Order system, and a regular time for sending orders.

26. Calls for orders will be made at regular times at the residences of members having Deposit Order Accounts, or who prefer to pay C. O. D., if within the old city limits. Arrangements will be made as fast as possible to complete a convenient system for order and delivery in all sections.

27. A Suggestion Book will be kept at the store, in which any member is invited to put in writing any complaint or suggestion as to any detail of the business which they consider of interest or value. Such suggestions need be signed by the membership number only, and it will be examined from day to day, and such suggestions or inquiries as require it duly answered. As this business is conducted in the interest of many partners, it is only fair that any and all have an opportunity to make any suggestions deemed valuable.

28. Any member desiring to use any article or quality of goods not comprised in the stock is respectfully requested to note that fact in the Suggestion Book, and if practicable, or the demand will warrant, such goods or qualities will be added to the stock.

29. Members are especially cautioned that in making comparisons of prices, as published in the Society's list, with those of other stores, care must be taken to compare the same qualities, and be sure that the articles bear out the claim. This will always be true of the goods in the Society's store. The qualities may always be relied upon; as all profit is given to the member there can be no inducement to misrepresent. The goods are sold at cost to the Society and not to make a profit. Members are warned that it may be possible to advertise and sell some one particular article lower than it is marked in our price list, but if so it is either sold less than cost and must be made good on some other article, or is of inferior quality, and such practice should not operate to allure a member from the Society's store. Members are asked to rely upon the certainty of this claim until time will certainly demonstrate its truth.

30. STOCKHOLDERS will find elsewhere in this Price List extracts from the Massachusetts Statutes bearing upon the powers, rights and privileges, and limitations, duties and restrictions appertaining to them individually as stockholders and to the Corporation.

31. MEMBERS are reminded that it is not within the range of possibility to provide in advance for every contingent that may arise, and that all features of the Society's work and plans must be tested by experience, and in the light of information derived from this source any difficulties apparent will be overcome as rapidly as possible. Should any regulation here laid down prove inconvenient, or in any degree impracticable, members are cordially invited to suggest any desirable changes, and bear with patience what may seem at commencement annoying, confident in the certainty of time's bringing about every remedy.

32. Always SUGGEST rather than COMPLAIN, and assist to remedy rather than help to destroy, and always remember it is your trade only that can keep the wheels moving.

EXTRACTS FROM MASSACHUSETTS STATUTES.

[ACTS OF 1870, CHAPTER 224.]

SECTION 3. For the purpose of co-operation in carrying on any business authorized in the last preceding section, and of co-operative trade, seven or more persons may associate themselves with a capital of not less than one thousand nor more than one hundred thousand dollars. CO-OPERATIVE STORES.

What they are.—Their Origin.—The Two English Systems and their Differences.—Facts and Figures concerning the Civil Service Plan.

The experience of the few weeks just passed in opening and establishing a Co-operative Store on the London or "Civil Service" plan, has developed the fact that the general public have either a very crude or a very mistaken and erroneous idea of the principle of co-operation as applied to store-keeping; and that it is only by education in its fundamental principles and a general diffusion of information as to its advantages and benefits that the fullest measure of success is to be obtained. For that purpose we devote a chapter of this work, and commend it to the careful perusal of all who are not fully posted on this important subject.

The general definition of a co-operative store in the minds of the general public, derived from knowledge of such ventures in this country heretofore, might be expressed somewhat as follows: the co-operative store is one which is launched upon theory, propelled for a time by the fair winds of philanthropy, and finally wrecked on the rocks of reality. It has been the roseate hued bubble blown by well-meaning philanthropists through the pipes of humanity and general benevolence, to be burst by contact with the harder facts of business actualities. The idea has been right, but something in its development has been wanting, and while that lack has been primarily the want of knowledge on the part of the public to appreciate and support, it has been secondarily the want of force and enterprise on the part of those most interested to propagate and explain the principle, as well as their failure to adapt the plan to the conditions by which it must necessarily be tried.

The "co-operative store," as understood here, is the opposite of the "competitive," or one in which the customers are at the same time buyers and sellers; customers and partners, who furnish the capital to buy the goods to supply their own demands, and who reap the profit upon this business growing out of their own wants. The idea being thoroughly English, or at least having been brought to its greatest perfection in that country, it is well to understand the real English definition of the co-operative principle, which is simply the division of the profits resulting from co-operative trading among the factors instrumental in producing them, viz.: custom, capital and labor; the customer receiving his dividend in proportion to the amount of his trade, capital its interest and an equitable proportion for its risk, and the laborer an equitable proportion for his faithfulness and as an incentive to work for the best results. The difference in the manner of paying this dividend to the customer constitutes the principal difference between the two English systems, and can be best understood by a brief sketch of their origin.

While it was not the first application of the co-operative principle to store-keeping, yet the Society of the Equitable Pioneers of Rochdale, England, established in 1844, was the pioneer of the nearly two thousand societies now flourishing in the kingdom of Great Britain upon its plan of trading, which, from the place of its origin, has received the name of Rochdale.

Its principal characteristics are: capital in £5 shares, of which a small portion only is paid on subscription and the balance in small monthly instalments, which with the dividends accruing on the purchases are credited until the amount is fully paid, when the full-paid certificate is issued, and dividends are thenceforth payable in cash. The dividends are produced by sales of goods at full retail prices, each member receiving small metal tokens corresponding in amount to the purchase made, and profits are divided upon the basis of these tokens (that is, in proportion to the amount of purchases). It is also customary to appropriate some portion of the profits to educational purposes, and many of these stores are furnished with commodious reading-rooms with well-stocked libraries, and support classes for instruction in various branches of learning. This form of co-operation is a social scheme, aiming at general reforms in society and the promotion of equity and justice in social and business relations, and has engaged the attention and is supported by many of the leading political economists of the age. Indeed, so popular has this principle become, that it is not only exercising a very decided influence upon general trade, and transforming the retail trade of the kingdom in a very appreciable measure, but it has attained great political importance, and members of Parliament have been made and unmade by its power. In addition to the nearly two thousand retail societies, there is a federation of these into a wholesale society at Manchester, whose annual sales are some $15,000,000, and another in Glasgow, Scotland, closely following in amount. This is the provincial form of co-operation, and this is the form of the principle which, from its popularity and success in the provincial towns and cities, has been taken for the model for most of the societies formed in this country, and, where the conditions of society and trade have been similar, have prospered, but when attempted in the larger cities, where conditions are very dissimilar, they have met with a less gratifying reception. This is as true of England as of America, for in the metropolis of London the Rochdale plan is comparatively unknown, while the "Civil Service" plan, so called, has attained phenomenal proportions, and only in the city of London has this plan been attempted.

"Civil Service," or "London Co-operation," as it is called, had quite as humble an origin as the Rochdale, and little did the poorly-paid and hard-worked clerks in the General Post Office in London suppose that their little plan for saving themselves a few pennies would result in the establishment of a business principle which in their city should far exceed in the amount of sales any other store in the world, and should be copied by us on this side of the Atlantic, with, we may trust, a proportionate amount of success.

The desire to make some slight saving led to combining the shillings of a few of these clerks toward a general capital, which was invested in a chest of tea, at wholesale price, which was hidden under the office stairs and doled out as required, at the same price. The saving thus made led to another investment and to the increase of the number of contributors. Coffee was then bought and divided in the same manner, then other articles of consumption, until the business outgrew its narrow limits and was transferred to a store, opposite the Post Office, known for a time as the Post Office Store. This was in the winter of 1864-5, and other branches of the service soon showing a disposition to join this money-saving establishment, in 1866 an association was formed under the Industrial and Provident Societies Act, called the "Civil Service Supply Association, Limited," and a large store was opened in the Haymarket, one of the most unpromising parts of the city.

We quote from the By-Laws of this Society :

"The object of the Society shall be to carry on the trade of General Dealers, so as to secure to members of the Civil Service and the friends of members of the Society the supply of articles of all kinds, both for domestic consumption and general use, at the lowest possible price."

"The capital of the Society shall be raised by shares of £1 each. No member shall hold more than one share, and the number of shares in force at any one time shall not exceed 4,500. Ten shillings shall be paid on each share on admission, and the remaining ten shillings may be called up at any time by the Committee of Management."

No person was admitted a member of the Society unless he was a member of the Civil Service and was approved by the Committee of Management. The committee was also empowered to grant to certain outside parties, upon the nomination and recommendation of members, privileges of purchasing at the Society's stores for a consideration of five shillings per annum.

Some idea of the rapid increase and extension of this business may be formed from the following facts, which we take from the actual documents of the Society, its balance sheets, etc.:

Its actual cash capital at commencement was the ten shillings paid in on each of 4,500 shares, making £2,250, about $11,000. Almost the entire stock of goods in its large store was put in on consignment, and the business done on precisely the same principle as the division of the chest of tea, except that a reasonable percentage was added to the prices of the goods to cover the necessary expenses of the business.

The sales for the first four years figure as follows: 1865, $25,000; 1866, $105,000; 1867, $415,000; 1868, 1,090,000; and in 1880 about $7,000,000. The plan of capitalizing its earnings (arising from the sale of membership tickets and a trifling margin on the goods) and crediting the same, together with the interest, to the stockholders soon paid the remaining ten shillings due on the £1 shares, and that amount was never called for, so that each share actually cost originally but ten shillings, or about $2.50. This capital of £2,250 in 1866 stood on June 30, 1880, as follows, being a transcript of their Surplus Fund Account for the period of six months ending on that date:

DR.	GENERAL ACCOUNT.	CR.
1879.		1880.
Dec. 31. To Balance of Fund £ s. d. from last account, 256,461 11 11½		June 30. By loan to £ s. d. the Association, 269,480 10 7½
1880.
June 30. Amount trans- ferred from Profit and Loss for six months to date, ££8,405 12s. 0d.
Less payments to represen- tatives of de- ceased mem- bers, 1,671 3s. 4d. 6,734 8 8
June 30. Interest on loan to the Association, 6,284 10 0
	£269,480 10 7½	£269,480 10 7½

This £269,480 10s. 7½d., or over $1,250,000, is then the accumulations of that $11,000 in 1866, and is credited to the individual stockers so that each individual share was, by report of the secretary, £63 2s. 6d., or about $315, for what cost $2.50, and the shares sold in London last summer as high as $410 each. The dividend credited to each stockholder for this same six months period was over 300 per cent., or over 600 per cent. per annum.

Sales are made only to members, and it is not possible for any other person to purchase even the most trifling article unless possessed of the "open sesame" in the shape of the membership ticket. The Society now deals in every conceivable kind of goods, which will be best understood by naming the lists of departments in the "Civil Service Co-operative Society, Limited," organized in 1867, on precisely the same plan.

On the ground floor are the following departments: Grocery, etc.; Coseques, Fruits, Sweets, etc.; Provisions; Wines, Spirits and Liqueurs; Cigars, Tobacco, Pipes, etc.

On the first floor: Chemicals, Drugs, Medicines, etc.; Perfumery, Hair Washes, Pomades, Tooth Powders, etc.; Drapery, Hosiery, Umbrellas, etc.; Haberdashery; Gentlemen's Boots and Shoes; Stationery, etc.; Artists' Colors and Materials; Fancy Goods; Books and Music; Electro-plate and Cutlery; Optical Goods and Scientific Instruments.

Second floor: Brushes, Mats, Turnery, etc.; China, Glass, Earthenware and Lamps; Games, Bicycles, etc.; Guns, Rifles, Ammunition, Fishing Tackle, etc.; Dresses, Mantles, etc.; Ladies' Underclothing; Ladies' Boots and Shoes; Blankets, Shirts, Portmanteaus, Barrack Furniture, etc.; Hats, Caps, Helmets, Busbies, Court Hats, etc.; Carpets, Curtains, Floor Cloth, etc.

Third floor: Ironmongery, Baths, Refrigerators, etc.; Bedsteads, etc.

This Society is on exactly the same plan and did a business last year of $2,600,000. The third in point of age but the largest in sales, is the "Army and Navy Co-operative Society, Limited," established in 1872, which sold last year upwards of $10,000,000. The "Army and Navy Junior," established in 1879, sold nearly $1,500,000, but varies in plan slightly, by dividing its profits among stockholders in proportion to the amount of purchases, without regard to the number of shares held, capital first receiving its interest at five per centum. Lastly, the new "Civil Service," organized a year ago, principally for supplying Indian residents, did a business of some $675,000.

Of the value of the Co-operative, or, as they are there called, "Civil Service stores," the London press speak in the strongest terms of commendation. The London Truth, on the 20th of April, in an article in reference to the complaints of the London tradesmen, says :

"Their complaints are in reality complaints against a common sense mode of carrying on a retail business." "Let us suppose," says Truth, "that a village has 500 inhabitants, and that one man can make a fair living by supplying them with bread, would the villagers consent to pay double for their bread because two bakers, instead of one, settle in the village? Yet this is precisely the doctrine of the small retail dealers." The Co-operative News, the organ of the Manchester Wholesale Society, and in fact of all societies on the Rochdale plan, in its edition of May 6th last, endorses the first quotation above given, and calls the "common sense method" that of "doing a large business at a low rate of expense, and charging less prices to the purchaser, or which, we prefer, returning the gain at the quarter's end." It says further: "Both stores (Civil Service stores) and larger shops are the result of the determination of the public to buy in the cheapest market. These remarks may be applied everywhere to the tradesmen in the districts of our own societies no less than to those near the Civil Service stores. The question everywhere is, How can the cost of buying and distributing be lessened? and what our societies are doing in this direction for the working classes the Civil Service societies are doing for the middle and higher classes. And though their business is not conducted as ours is, and as we would wish, yet they are doubtless doing a considerable amount of good." "Apart from the profits which they pay away, the great good they do in reducing the prices of other tradespeople must not be overlooked."

It is after the pattern of these Civil Service Societies in London that the CIVIL SERVICE CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY of Boston is modelled, though differing from them in not being restricted in its stockholders or members to employés in that service. While the idea of this Society originated among officers in the government service and its stock is held by many such, yet it is more largely held by the general public, and at present the number of stockholders is about 400, and its annual membership upwards of 300, making over 700 now on the membership register. Its plan in detail is fully explained elsewhere, but its fundamental principles, which are easily comprehended, are the sale of pure goods at a price which shall cover only the expense of handling, for cash, and the limitation of this privilege to members. The Society contracts also with leading dealers in all lines of goods, by which members secure discounts; and contracts also for the supply of Wood and Coal for its members, saving thereby from thirty-seven and one-half to fifty cents per ton.

While dealing at present only in Groceries, it is the ultimate intention to add other lines of goods, as soon as it can be accomplished with safety.

The secret of success in this enterprise is the "doing of a large business at a small margin of expense," and as the increase of trading members tends to reduce the expense by the increase of profits, and such reductions appear at once in lower prices to members, its thorough and unqualified success is, of course, only dependent upon the number of families who will avail themselves of its advantages. That it is only necessary to inform the public upon this subject to secure membership is evidenced by the fact that since the opening of the store the membership increase has steadily averaged over forty weekly.

In this era of high prices any plan that will tend to reduce the cost of living ought to be eagerly welcomed, and it is not too much to say, that members of this Society have it in their power to make a saving of at least ten per cent., simply through connection therewith. Investigate the subject then, thoroughly, and see if co-operation with your neighbors will prove a blessing both to yourself and them.

The philanthropy of this work is manifested in its results rather than in its promises. Opening the doors of this Society to the poor man, the laborer and the clerk, enabling him to purchase goods of the first quality at the same prices as his richer neighbors, surely is practical philanthropy, especially when he can, by the expenditure of only four dollars, own a share of its stock and have a voice in its affairs equal to the holder of fifty of its shares.

Annual members assume no liability, and stockholders are liable only for the amount of their subscriptions, and each stockholder is entitled to one vote irrespective of the number of shares held. No plan of organization or of trading could be more equitable, just or satisfactory, and that it may become better understood and more widely influential is, we believe, the certain destiny of events.

TO STOCKHOLDERS.

To the more than three hundred persons who have manifested sufficient interest in the principle of co-operation, upon the plan indicated in our published circulars and advertisements, to invest in its shares, it is proper that a word should be addressed with a view of impressing upon them the implied responsibilities and duties inseparably associated with anticipated benefits, both as to immediate savings and prospective dividends upon the investment.

This society, as it is certainly known to every stockholder, is simply a combination of consumers intended to cheapen the prices of the articles of consumption, by furnishing the purest and best of articles to members only at the very lowest remunerative rates. That the question of these rates, or of the prices to be placed on the society's goods, is wholly dependent upon the volume of trade with which the store is favored, or in other words upon the number of members who give it their custom, goes without saying; and each and every stockholder who has goods in the grocery line to purchase, and fails to patronize his own store, not only neglects to fulfil his implied obligation to the others, but to a certain extent prevents them from attaining the full measure of success all have a right to expect from the co-operation of all. Still further, a failure in this commendable enterprise can only be brought about by lack of patronage of members, of whom there are now sufficient, if they bestow their trade, to assure success.

Stockholders must bear in mind that it is upon the basis of the amount of trade, fair to be expected from the present number, that prices have been fixed; that any increase in the number of members trading will enable lower prices to be made, as the ratio of the expenses to the receipts decrease in proportion to the increase in the volume of trade, and vice versa; a decrease in the volume of trade will necessitate higher prices, or produce a deficiency.

The prices as now made are, in the main, certainly in the more important and staple articles, lower for the same qualities than any other store in the city, and if occasionally an article may be as high or higher, it is for the reason that it is of a better quality or cannot be sold for less without loss, which it is not our policy to do, because we are not making it up on other articles.

As has been before observed these prices have been made depending upon the trade of stockholders already interested, and the responsibility for the success or failure must rest with them, and they hold its determination in their hands by the bestowal or withholding of their patronage.

The trade has opened as well as, or better than was anticipated, and new members and new interest is being daily created, so that the prospects of a steadily increasing trade are very flattering; and while the present indications are so favorable, we do not propose to relinquish any claims that are due from stockholders, or be backward in calling them to a realization of the duty they owe themselves and associates.

We all owe something to principle as well; and having embarked upon a plan of Co-operation, which, while differing in its essential features from those others which have met with but little success, is, nevertheless, for the present certainly on trial. We must all put our shoulders to the wheel, and, if need be, submit to a few trifling inconveniences, to do all that in us lies to protect the name of Co-operation from any added discredit, by an added failure to the long list of such results.

We have in charge and dependent upon us the propagation and salvation of a valuable principle, a principle which once established by an enduring success will find ready response in the hearts of all who believe in equity and justice and in their application to every-day business, and in the possibility of the practice of a common-sense philanthropy through the medium of common-sense co-operation.

Let each and every stockholder feel his individual responsibility in this cause, and give it his heartiest co-operation, remembering that upon his custom depends the success or failure of the enterprise; and upon those who fail to do their duty in this respect should rest the responsibility for any want of success rather than upon

WINE AND LIQUOR DEPARTMENT.

This department has been added by the special request of many stockholders, who feel the great necessity of procuring for family and medicinal use wines and liquors the purity and quality of which may be depended upon with certainty. These goods have been selected with great care, and in every instance where practicable the goods have been bought in bond and bottled by us, without any reduction to proof or any alteration in any manner of the original quality of the goods as distilled from the grains. Any bottle bearing the Society's label may be confidently relied upon as containing pure goods, just as represented. It will also be observed that the greater part of the enormous profit usually made on this description of goods is given to the customer.

"THE BOSTON"

COCOA PREPARATIONS

"THE BOSTON" BREAKFAST OR LUNCH COCOA is manufactured with the greatest care from selected cocoa of the very highest grades. It is absolutely pure cocoa, with the excess of oil taken out by hydraulic pressure, is especially suited to those suffering from dyspepsia, as it is very nourishing and EASILY DIGESTED. It is an invigorating beverage for strong, healthy constitutions, and is in GREAT FAVOR with those of less robust health, as it is both food and drink: soothing and building up, rather than unduly exciting the nervous system. Put up in half-pound French style tins, full weight, "Swain, Earle & Co." stamped in head of every package, with beautiful lithographic labels. Twelve cans in each box.

"THE BOSTON" PREMIUM CHOCOLATE is prepared from choice selections of Cocoa, several kinds being scientifically combined so as to secure richness and delicacy of flavor, as well as uniform strength. Packed in 12 lb. and 24 lb. boxes, each box containing pounds and halves in separate packages. The labels are quite novel and very attractive.

"THE BOSTON" CRACKED COCOA is a combination of selected Cocoa, carefully sifted and packed in 1 pound cans (full weight) 12 cans in a box.

"THE BOSTON" BROMA affords a mild, safe beverage for all. It is carefully prepared and packed in one-half pound tins. Twelve tins in a box.

"THE BOSTON" COCOA SHELLS are all thoroughly sifted, and packed in unusually attractive pound packages, in twelve pound and twenty-four pound boxes.

(From the celebrated Astor House of New York.)

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK, January 12, 1882.

Having thoroughly tested "The Boston" Chocolate in using it, we pronounce it first-class in every respect.

B. F. JONES, STEWARD.

(From H. K. & F. B. THURBER & Co. of New York.)

NEW YORK, March 16, 1882.

"The Boston" Cocoa preparations, which include Chocolate and Broma, are unexcelled by any similar goods made, while in style they are the most attractive goods of the kind on the market.

TO HOUSEKEEPERS.

Owing to the increased and constantly increasing cost of Vanilla beans, used in the manufacture of Extract Vanilla, spurious compounds are being thrown upon the market, purporting to be pure Vanilla, but prepared principally from Tonqua beans.

The National Dispensatory says of Tonqua Beans: "They are usually covered with a crystalline efflorescence of coumarin. Given to dogs in the dose of from seven to ten grains, this substance produced great and even fatal depression; and in man in the dose of from thirty to sixty grains it occasioned nausea, giddiness, depression, vomiting and drowsiness." Many of the spurious compounds purporting to be pure Extract of Vanilla are prepared principally from Tonqua beans.

Housekeepers who study their interests will demand of their grocer strictly pure Vanilla only, and refuse to accept of an adulterated compound, which may render the dealer a better profit.

BURNETT'S EXTRACT OF VANILLA

is prepared from selected Vanilla beans, and is warranted entirely free from Tonqua or other deleterious substances.

All Cooking Extracts, such as Lemon, Vanilla, Rose, Almond, Celery, etc., prepared at the laboratory of Joseph Burnett & Co., Boston, can be relied upon for purity and strength. For upwards of thirty years they have been used by the leading hotels and the best families throughout the United States, and are sold by all first-class grocers and druggists.

THE NEW ENGLAND PATENT IMPROVED
ROLLING METALLIC
SPRING BED,
FOWLER'S PATENT.

DECLARED BY THE HIGHEST AUTHORITIES
"THE BEST IN THE WORLD."

Wherever severe scrutiny is brought to bear by competent judges, the universal decision is that

THIS BED IS WITHOUT A RIVAL.

It is the softest and most perfectly elastic spring bed in use, and yet so strong that it will sustain a weight of TWO THOUSAND POUNDS.

It is so constructed that when two persons of unequal weight occupy it, there is no TENDENCY TO ROLL TOWARD THE CENTER.

It is thoroughly ventilated, is never out of order, there is never anything missing; it is always whole, NEEDS BUT ONE MATTRESS, and can be put up anywhere, even on the FLOOR.

If desired can be paid by weekly instalments.
